Seven seas turned to ink, into pen all forest, all earth into sheets of paper, glory of a teacher can’t be written yet!

I have grown up personally and as a scientist during my years of PhD in Groningen. And lots of people are directly responsible for all these beautiful changes. I want to start by thanking my PhD supervisors first. Professor Peter van Haastert, thanks for giving me an opportunity to come here and begin my career as a researcher. It was a big step for me and a much bigger step for my family who didn’t believe their fragile bird (their opinion, not mine) can survive without them. Although you were not around much in the beginning given your position in the GBB and later in the faculty board, but during the end of my PhD when you started to spend more time with us I was amazed with your simplicity and your child-like enthusiasm for research. Things became more interesting when we started to talk about farming, they say once a farmer always a farmer, and we connected talking about the simple way of life of a villager. You must have heard it “n” number of times how great a boss you are but I want to tell you that your former student Arjan has grown to be an awesome boss as well. Arjan, you have not only done so much work in shaping my mind and my future as a researcher but you were always there whenever I needed your guidance on personal front. Thank you very much for your patience, enthusiasm, and your skills, and for always being around. I want to warn you beforehand that although you gave me wings and you have managed to push me out of the nest, I’ll keep coming back to you and keep bothering you whenever the need be.

Miss, everything was so easy because you were around. I’m not only talking about lab work when you mentored me with chemotaxis assays and confocal but more because with your love, affection, and charisma I never missed my mother. I would be jealous if you would love some other PhD student as much. From the first day, when you comforted me with a warm hug as I came to the lab nearly crying for being outside in snowy weather for a long time, to the day when you decorated the office for me on the colour festival holi, when you used to warm my awfully cold hands by holding them, so many and so many of those special moments. I’ll miss you Miss, your memories make me cry as I type this and my contact lens is falling off. Dear Maarten, thank you for your comments, corrections and feedbacks regarding my presentation skills, and also for every time you have helped me improve the writing, be it e-mails or CV or anything. For everybody who don’t know these people, I want to tell you that they are the best teachers one can ask for. I was lucky to have them, and I feel sorry for myself that I can’t work with them forever. The acknowledgements for all these people are not complete until I mention their partners. Although they have no obligations towards us but they all make it a point to socialize with us from time to time. Leidy, Karen, Ab, and, Bilge thank you very much for hosting the dinner parties and being such great sport whenever we met.

I would like to express my sincere thanks to the members of the reading committee who took time out of their busy schedules to read and suggest corrections in the thesis. Thanks Prof Rick Firtel, Prof Martina Schmidt, and Prof Ida van der Klei for your willingness to read my thesis.

Kasiu, you have been my pillar of strength, my pain killer when I was distressed, my biking teacher, my shoulder to lean on when I needed to cry, my cheer-leader, my hoola-hoop teacher, my shopping mate, my stylist, and what not! With you I have grown up so much, as a person, as a cook, as a biker, I have matured a lot. I love you Kasiu and I miss you too. Things were very-very difficult when you moved away from the lab but Richard slowly starting to fill your shoes for me. He has been an awesome friend all through- always there for me, my second pillar of strength. Richard I’m sorry that we can’t go for our tea-breaks together anymore, I think of you whenever I drink tea. But, you and Kasia can also thank me for one thing-increasing your spice tolerance! Bernd, I wish you were here more than you were. You were an awesome colleague albeit a big teaser. Although it was difficult to tackle with you when you ganged up with Arjan against me, but still both of you were great office-mates.

Liu, your childish behavior makes everybody smile but sometimes can drive people crazy too. Kidding Liu, you are superb, and I’m happy I have a Chinese brother. Ankita, we had lots of fun memories together, esp the unforgettable Dutch classes. Ina, you were a very good colleague too, and you have a contagious smile. So keep smiling always. Laura and Susanne it was great knowing you girls and it’s a shame I didn’t get much time working with you. Marjon, the latest entrant to the lab- I’m happy you took the LrrA project and I’m sure you are going to do a great job.

Some people parted ways from the lab few months after I joined but they left their mark. Dr Bart Eggen, there’s no one annoying us on purpose by talking about eating frog’s leg during lunch time. Your roaring laughter is always missing on our lunch table now. I wish you keep laughing always. Miss Loes, it was a pleasure knowing you. I hope you are enjoying your retired life now. Wouter, you were the one who showed me how things work in the lab when I joined, thank you. Raj, thanks to you and Sirisha who took effort to show me around in the city centre and where to buy Indian snacks.

During my PhD I had the opportunity to supervise some very bright students. Arjan, Amina, David, Frank, Mark, Paula, Esther, Zara, Hidde, Sebald, and Petra, I was very happy working with you and I hope you enjoyed it too. Sebald, you were great, thanks also for volunteering after your internship was over. My best wishes for your future.

I would like to extend my thanks to GISA (Groningen Indian Student’s Association). It was lots of fun to be a part of GISA and organize the events and be part of them. Courtesy GISA, I met people who became my good friends. Pallavi (Pillu), Milind, Amol, Sneha, thank you for giving the feeling of home away from home. I would never forget so many fun-filled evenings with tasty food, supporting each other in times of need, helping to clean and shift houses, dancing together, and many other things. Friends of your friends become your good friends! Girish, Rashmi, Harsha, Hari- you guys are great fun to be with. Thank you. Vineet, Lakshmi, Vikram Bollineni, Tushar, Jasmine, Vijay, Deepika, Kuldeep, Gaurav and Neha- there are so many other reasons that I have to thank you guys apart from the delicious food I had at your place of course. Thank you very much guys. Aditya, Kiran, and Shiva thanks for the musical CD and also for appreciating my poems. You were a great audience. Suresh Babu, Milon, you guys are great. Justyna, for all the evenings we have spent together, for all the times you were there for me and with me, thank you. Geetu, how can people bond with each other so strong in such a short time! In less than a month we became such great good friends, it’s only because you have so much goodness in you. I wish you stay happy always. Samar, thanks for listening to all my rant when I was upset. I’m always awed with your intellect. I have to learn so many things from you but I never took time out. I would also like to thank my friends Usha, Deepti, Pratima, Vinoo, you girls are awesome and I’m happy you are my friends.

I wonder what people would think upon reading this, but this is what I have been surrounded with. So many great people who are so nice, who are so good, who have so much love for me! I would just say that I’m lucky to have met all of them during my PhD. I would also like to thank this beautiful city of Groningen where I got so much love of my colleagues, my bosses and my friends and also met a loving person who is fortunately my husband now. Ashu, you are a great husband. Last but not the least, the people who have always given me immense love and sense of protection and have never asked for anything in return! My parents, my Mamaji, Uncles and Aunts, my little brothers- Dikshant, Toni, Sonu, Vishal, sisters- Anu, Romia, Tini, Chinki, Rinki, and all other cousins, Mourya, and sweet Priya – a new member to my family. I love you all, very-very much. To err is human, and I’m very forgetful so please forgive me if you don’t find your name here, your contributions are also greatly valued. Thanks.
