Time flies so fast. Sometimes, I can’t believe that I will obtain a PhD degree soon, starting from a person who knows no nothing about molecular motors and photoresponsive supramolecular polymers. It was a beautiful adventure and a joyful study experience. The most amazing thing was that I met so many lovely people here.

First and foremost, I would thank my supervisor Ben for giving me the opportunity to be a member of Feringa Lab. Dear Ben, your needless enthusiasm for science affects me a lot. I really appreciate the supervision and research freedom you gave to me. Whenever I tell you a discovery, even a tiny one, you always look excited and encourage me to study further, which makes me more motivated. Sometimes, I really feel sorry that you corrected my manuscripts and thesis during the weekends. You are probably the most hard-working one in our group. I feel so lucky to be one of your students. Your enthusiasm and carefulness in science and work will also affect me in the future.

Dear Sander, thanks for being my supervisor and for your constructive suggestions. I still remember you telling me not to be afraid to show negative results. This suggestion helps me keep calm when faced with failed projects. Indeed, the ups and downs of the research sometimes are not decided by us.

Many thanks to my assessment committee, Prof. Bert Meijer, Prof. Kajia Loos, and Prof. Wesley Browne, for reading my thesis. Dear Prof. Bert Meijer, thanks for your nice words on my thesis. I’m so honored that you gave an excellent evaluation of my thesis. You might not know that your fascinating lecture on the Supramolecular Chemistry Course inspired me a lot and affected my research interests. Dear Wesley, you are like a "cop" to me at the beginning. I often worried about being caught by you in the lab on Saturday afternoon, although I am accompanied by our colleagues. I really appreciate your rigorous attitude to safety, but I initially feared you. Later, you are like a "firefighter" to me. Every time I face the collapse of the UV/CD instruments, you are the one who saves me from the "fire". You are a person who looks stern (cool) but is actually very warm-hearted. I also want to thank you again for helping me with the experiments required by the reviewers of manuscripts.

I’m grateful that Prof. Adriaan Minnaard, Prof. Wesley Browne, Prof. Wiktor Szymanski, Prof. Wouter Roos, Dr. Micheal Lerch, and Dr. Marc Stuart will attend the PhD ceremony. Dear Marc, thanks for the excellent electron microscopic (EM) measurements. Without your rich experience in cryo-TEM, I cannot finish my PhD studies smoothly. Your rigorous attitude to EM results affected me a lot. I really appreciate you teaching me so much EM knowledge. Dear Wiktor, thanks for the questions during group meetings. Although difficult, they were very helpful in making projects better. And thanks for all the constructive suggestions.
I would also like to thank Prof. Wouter Roos, Prof. Bart van Wees, and Prof. Richard Hoogenboom for inspiring discussion on our collaborative projects. Dear Chris, Sytze, Xu and Victor, it was great to work with you. Your professionalism and enthusiasm made it a pleasure to work on these multidisciplinary projects. I really appreciate it. I hope our results can be seen by others soon.

Dear Lukas, I really enjoy the fruitful discussion with you about our projects and the science in others' papers. Many thanks for your suggestions and corrections on our papers, my CV, and the letter.

Dear Stefano, it was a great pleasure to work with you. Your support was always on time, even though you were extremely busy at that moment. I really appreciate it. I also admire that you are able to handle so many things at the same time. Thanks again for your support and help with our papers and projects.

Dear Tineke, you are truly an angel for our group. Without you, I don't know when I will make the defense. I really appreciate all the help and comforting words from you.

To my dear paranymps Shaoyu and Marco, thanks for accompanying me to this important event in my life. Dear Shaoyu, it was always enjoyable to hang out and chat with you. You are so sweet and thoughtful. Our journey to Germany with Qian is one of the shining memories at the beginning of my PhD. Dear Macro, I'm very grateful that you make this fantastic cover for my thesis! You are such a warmhearted person, except when playing video and board games. However, it was great fun to play games with you.

Dear Yuanxin and Jianxin, it was an absolute pleasure to share various information, e.g., life, thesis, and the whereabouts of Ben, during our coffee time, okay, maybe sometimes the whole afternoon. Jinyu, Qi, and Youxin, it was an interesting experience to work with you. It was even more interesting to play cards and Mahjong with you guys. I wish you all a bright future.

Dear Daisy, I am so glad we share many exciting moments in the office and even a bed during our trip to Paris for ISOP 2019. It was a fantastic experience. Many thanks for numerous delightful and comforting words and for correcting my Propositions. Dear Vanda, our connection started with a freeze drier and continued with gels, and stiff-stilbenes, etc. You are such a sweet and kind person. It was always lovely to chat with you. Dear Lotte, you always take care of everyone in our lab and make our lab in order. Thank you for the careful translation of my Summary into Dutch. Dear Jana, I’m so happy that we share the lovely drawing course, emotions, and even PhD ceremony, which will be a wonderful and unique memory. Dear Anouk, many thanks for all the support and checking my chapter 1. Dear

Carlijin and Cosima, It was delightful that you girls always came to our office, making the atmosphere more lively.

I would like to thank Ainoa, Adrien, Bianka, Marco Wonink, Max, Damian, Dan, Roza, Sven, Tobias, Xiaobin, Yahan, and all the people in the group for making our pleasant working environment. I'm also very grateful for all the help from John, Renze, Pieter, and Johan.

To our dear former members, Jiwen, Franco, Wojtek, Jinling, and Henrieke et al., thanks for your great help. I wish you all a happy life.

To Yuru Liu, Yanfei Li, Jing Zhao, Xiaotian Zhu, Zhiwen Wang, Jie Zong&Zhenlei Zhang, Fan Yang, Luo Ge, Yongzhuang Liu, Feng Yan, Heng Zhang, Wen Li, Yangyang Guo, Siwei Chen, Minpeng Liang, Chongnan Ye, Xingchen Yan, Yafei Guo, Chengtao Ji, Ping Zhang&Gang Ye, Min Wang, Yichen Liu, Cancan Qi, Pei Meng and all the friends, it was a great pleasure to meet you in Groningen. The dinners, parties, and travels we had were highly delightful. Your company made my stay in Groningen much more enjoyable.

At last, I would express my most profound appreciation to my fiancé, Huaizhou Yang, and my family! Dear Huaizhou, I cannot finish my PhD without you. You are not only a loving, caring fiancé but also a like-minded friend with wisdom, vision, humor, and many other charming personalities. Meeting you is the most beautiful and lucky thing in my life. We have countless happiest moments in our life, and I believe we will have more in the future. Let’s continue to support each other and become better people.

To Dad, Mom and my family:

感谢爸爸妈妈无尽的爱与支持。你们的无私付出使我拥有一个无忧无虑的学习生涯，你们的开明教育让我可以自由选择想走的路。你们的爱是我勇敢面对挑战的底气，也是我相信世间美好的起源。谢谢奶奶和所有家人的关心与支持。希望大家平安快乐，愿我们的大家庭更加繁荣兴旺。
