

University of Groningen

Strategic interactions in environmental economics

Heijnen, Pim

IMPORTANT NOTE: You are advised to consult the publisher's version (publisher's PDF) if you wish to cite from it. Please check the document version below.

Document Version

Publisher's PDF, also known as Version of record

Publication date:

2007

Link to publication in University of Groningen/UMCG research database

Citation for published version (APA):

Heijnen, P. (2007). Strategic interactions in environmental economics. [Thesis fully internal (DIV), University of Groningen]. s.n.

Copyright

Other than for strictly personal use, it is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

The publication may also be distributed here under the terms of Article 25fa of the Dutch Copyright Act, indicated by the "Taverne" license. More information can be found on the University of Groningen website: <https://www.rug.nl/library/open-access/self-archiving-pure/taverne-amendment>.

Take-down policy

If you believe that this document breaches copyright please contact us providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

Downloaded from the University of Groningen/UMCG research database (Pure): <http://www.rug.nl/research/portal>. For technical reasons the number of authors shown on this cover page is limited to 10 maximum.

Acknowledgments

This list of acknowledgments is divided in to two slightly arbitrary categories: persons who made an (in)valuable contribution to this thesis and persons who made the time spent writing this thesis more tolerable. For the sake of simplicity, I have treated the two categories as being entirely disjoint.

In the first category, I am grateful to my two promotores, Peter Kooreman and Bert Schoonbeek. They gave me the opportunity to write this thesis and, for reasons beyond my comprehension, they had the faith that I would finish this project successfully. But also their different, and completely complementary, approaches to Ph.D. supervising turned out to be a good combination: Peter who always kept track of the broader picture and Bert whose meticulousness and conscientiousness vastly improved both the clarity and quality of this thesis. I am indebted to the reading committee, José-Luis Moraga-González, Frans van Winden and Aart de Zeeuw, for their willingness to read this thesis. Especially, I would like to thank José-Luis for his detailed comments on Chapters 3 and 6. The genesis of Chapter 3 lies in my visit to the Kelley School of Business in the Spring of 2005 and the conversations I had with John Maxwell, whose willingness to host me for two weeks is gratefully acknowledged. Discussion with Marco Haan were often helpful: Marco's open door is indeed a great resource for the Ph.D.-students in this department (cf. Soetevent, 2004, p.viii). Maarten Allers and Eduard Gerritsen are much obliged for providing the data I used in Chapter 5 and the background knowledge on municipal politics and organization. Finally, thanks to the people that commented on the Chapters in this thesis in one of their past incarnations: Ben Heijdra (Chapter 4, which has indeed improved), Eric Rasmusen (Chapter 2) and Linda Toolsema (Chapter 6).

In the second category, the people that made the time spent writing this thesis more tolerable, I would like to start by thanking my roommates for all the obvious reasons: Bastiaan Overvest, Allard van der Made, Adriaan Soetevent and Lammertjan Dam. After work many meals were eaten at the ACLO, often in the companionship of Robert Inklaar, Bart Los and Ward Romp. Although the quality of the meals was acceptable at best, it was a good way to wind down after a day's work or, occasionally, a welcome break before resuming work in the evening. Sebastiano 'Alessio' Delre's and Iván Orosa-Paleo's wildly different research subjects were no obstacle in our infrequent but thoroughly enjoyable discussions about research, movies, and music. Anyone else who feels that they ought to be thanked (but is not mentioned): this is entirely accidental and you can use the subsequent space to insert your own name: _____.

Outside the university, the following people have made the last nine years in Groningen not as bad as they could have been: Rick Schwieters, Jan-Luuc Halsema, Winfred Meijer, Joost Wempe, Nynke Zwaagman, Martine Geertsma, Nanne Rodenhuis and Anton Rolink. Also I want to thank Tze 'Atze' Shao for putting up with me for a week during my stay in the US: a pleasant stay despite the fact that your idea of a sightseeing tour in New York consists of the library of the Courant Institute of Mathematical Sciences. Finally, I want to thank my parents, Ben and Mia Heijnen, for always supporting me.

Groningen, Autumn 2006

Pim Heijnen