References

• Loftus, G. R. (1997). Psychology will be a much better science when we change the way we analyze data. Current Directions in Psychological Science, Vol 5(6), 161-171.

References

- Schiff, R. (2002). They look similar, but they are different: reading two morphological structures of Hebrew nouns. First language, 22, 305-322.

References

• Van Dijk, M. & van Geert, P. (2003). Disentangling behavior in early child development; interpretability of early child language and the problem of filler syllables and growing utterance length. Infant Behavior and Development. Accepted for publication pending revisions.

References