Acknowledgements

The long journey of my doctoral research has ended. This research was a process of learning that asked for the involvement of individuals, companies and institutions. During my research period, I received unconditional co-operation from many individuals/organizations, and their support was a key factor in successfully completing the thesis. I greatly appreciate the contribution of everyone involved and I apologize to those I do not mention by name.

First of all, I am especially grateful to my supervisors, Professor Jacob Wijngaard and Dr. Clemens Lutz, who provided me with valuable guidance and comments throughout the research period. Their devotion in re-reading the texts and their unreserved support deserves especial appreciation. I also thank both of my supervisors for giving me the opportunity to work in the area of my interest and for their ability to tighten the reins at the proper time. I look forward to see our business relations develop to a higher level and to present more of our joint work to the scientific community. I would also like to thank the members of the reading committee Professor Ir.C.T.B. Ahaus, Professor S.W.F. (Onno) Omta and Professor Ludo Cuyvers, for reading the manuscript and for providing me with constructive comments. During the period of data collection, I visited both the Vietnam and Dutch fish industries. To begin with, I would like to express my gratitude to the following members of the Vietnam fish industry for their willingness to be interviewed and also for spending time and effort in filling questionnaires: fish farmers, representatives of the Fishery Association, staff of the Ministry of Fisheries, staff of the Competent Authority, Managers of Agifish, Afiex, Cuu Long, Vinh Hoang, and Binh An Company. I am also grateful to all staff members of the Department of Fisheries in An Giang, Dong Thap, and Can Tho, as well as staffs at Cantho University, for their moral support, and also for allowing me to use the guest house and field station facilities at the early stage of my research work.

I am also pleased to acknowledge the co-operation of the managers and directors of the following Dutch fish importing firms and institutions: Anova B.V, Fiskano B.V. and Lee Sea fish B.V., the Agricultural Economics Research Institute (LEI), the Dutch Fish Marketing Board, and the Centre for the Promotion of Imports from Developing Countries. I found the open discussions with Managers and Directors of these companies and institutions very useful.

While conducting the thesis, I am also grateful to my colleagues at the University of Groningen and the University of Antwerpen: Loc, Son, Binh, Tra, Thong, Tu, Dut, Ha, Thanh, Uyen, Nhung, Nurul, Hawa, Kadek, and Ivan. I would like to express my gratitude for all that you have done for me. Moreover, I would like to thank all my colleagues at SEBA, Can Tho University for helping to cover my faculty duties.

I extend especial thanks to Professor Robert Lensink and Dr. Mai Van Nam for successfully coordinating the NPT program. I also express my gratitude to the staff of the Office of the International Co-operation and of the the Centre for Development Studies, the Research SOM, the University of Groningen: Madeleine Gardeur, Gonny Lakerveld, Anita Veltmaat, Wiebe Zijlstra, Arthur de Boer, Rina Koning, Martin Land, Ellen Nienhuis, Astrid Beerta, and Truusje for facilitating all administrative works and for their moral support as well. I would like to thank Arnout Pool who devoted a great amount of time to the correction of the first English version of this thesis. I am also glad to extend my appreciation to my “Paranimfen”, Mr. Arthur de Boer and Mr. Mark Strookappe for efficiently organizing all paranimf activities.

I wish to express my sincere thanks to my parents, Le Van Quoi and Nguyen Thanh Mai, my parents-in-law, Nguyen Van Khen and Huynh Thi Le Hang, my brother, Le Nguyen Doan Duy, and my brothers-in-law, Nguyen Hoang Thong, Nguyen Hoang Thai for their continual encouragement, love, and prayers for my progress and success. Finally, I am greatly indebted to my wife, Nguyen Thi Kim Ha, and my lovely daughter, Le Nguyen Ha Thanh, for their love, moral support, understanding and great encouragement.
