Telomeres, oxidative stress and life history trade-offs in a colonial corvid

The research reported in this thesis was carried out at the Behavioural Biology Group at the University of Groningen, The Netherlands. All studies were approved by the Ethical Committee of the University of Groningen. The research was supported by a Vici grant from the Netherlands Organisation for Scientific Research (NWO) awarded to S. Verhulst. Additional support was received from the research school of Behavioural and Cognitive Neurosciences (BCN).
