

University of Groningen

The social health and well-being of people with memory problems and dementia

Sturge, Jodi

DOI:
10.33612/diss.194514450

IMPORTANT NOTE: You are advised to consult the publisher's version (publisher's PDF) if you wish to cite from it. Please check the document version below.

Document Version
Publisher's PDF, also known as Version of record

Publication date:
2022

Link to publication in University of Groningen/UMCG research database

Citation for published version (APA):
Sturge, J. (2022). The social health and well-being of people with memory problems and dementia. [Thesis fully internal (DIV), University of Groningen]. University of Groningen.
<https://doi.org/10.33612/diss.194514450>

Copyright

Other than for strictly personal use, it is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

The publication may also be distributed here under the terms of Article 25fa of the Dutch Copyright Act, indicated by the "Taverne" license. More information can be found on the University of Groningen website: <https://www.rug.nl/library/open-access/self-archiving-pure/taverne-amendment>.

Take-down policy

If you believe that this document breaches copyright please contact us providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

Downloaded from the University of Groningen/UMCG research database (Pure): <http://www.rug.nl/research/portal>. For technical reasons the number of authors shown on this cover page is limited to 10 maximum.

Acknowledgements

My life dramatically changed in June 2018 when I started this thesis. A new country, home, language, marriage, family, friends and career path. Several people made this journey possible. I know I will forget someone, but here is my best attempt.

First, I would like to express my profound appreciation to Louise, Gerd and Clara for selecting me, a Canadian, to be the PhD student for the COORDINATEs project. In addition, I want to acknowledge the COORDINATEs team, Marie, France and Allyson for the encouragement, guidance and support over the past three years. In addition, I appreciate the insight, advice and humour provided by Danielle and Sanna during our cross-country, multi-time zone, on-line meetings which made this PhD journey less lonely. Most importantly, completing this thesis would not have been possible without the on-going supervision and support provided by Louise and Gerd. Louise, thank you for your knowledge, helpful contributions and timely feedback. Plus, I very much appreciate your understanding during the early days of adapting to student life. Gerd, thank you for the one-to-one GIS refresher sessions plus sharing your perspective and input throughout the publication process. I also appreciate the time spent with you on the Faculty Council.

Several people played a role in the data collection for this project. First off, I want to thank the participants for dedicating time to participate in this study and community case managers (Erika and Jeanette) for connecting us with referrals. The data for this project would not have been as rich or dynamic without Daan's navigation skills and natural ability to connect with the participants. Thank you Debbie for sharing your passion, data collection experience and analytical insights. I also enjoyed working with Mirjam, who was always positive, asking big questions and slowing me down in the analysis process.

Throughout this thesis, I participated in a number of training and professional development opportunities. I would like to acknowledge the INTERDEM Academy for building an interactive community of European dementia researchers. The on-line Master Classes, in particular, provided a lot of inspiration for this thesis. Additionally, I have had the pleasure to work part-time for Adema Architecten who hired me to bring research into practice over the past year. I want to express my deepest gratitude to Cynthia The, Silvester Adema and all my colleagues for being welcoming, inspiring and creative but also for Bánh mì, walks and cooking together. Further, my overall well-being during this thesis was supported by Corrina Ostafin-Hermann and Open Yoga (especially Julia) who provided space for reflection, relaxation and growth. During my PhD I also had to learn Dutch. A special thank you to my inburgeringexamen coach, Machiel, who always reminded me of my roots and the great one (99).

Over the past three years, I have worked with several great colleagues at the Faculty including Adrien, Bettina, Billie, Carla, Hinke, Jonne, Mirjam, Rik, Roberta, Roselinde, Tom and Zeinab. Thank you to Alyona for setting introduction and conclusion goals, Emma for providing career perspective and Tess for bouncing new ideas. I am grateful as well for my circle of friends, old and new, near and far who supported my social health. I have met many great people during this time including Sjoke, Gabi, Sander, Solenn, Charles, Camilla, Nicoli, Fanny, Tobias, Janny, Samuel, Petra, Jacco, Peter, Riekje, Paul, Meagan (Maple Ridge) and Matt. A special thank you to Erin for the consistent Friday morning coffee/ Thursday evening wine chats and Shoshanna for the regular end of workday/ beginning of workday commute calls. Because of both of you, Vancouver never felt that far away.

I want to acknowledge my family for their support especially Mom, Dad, Richard, Sheila, Don and Linh. Thank you for everything, including the visits to Groningen and FaceTime check-ins. Also, thank you Peter for staying in touch, sharing research and news articles relevant to my research. My sincere appreciation also goes to my new Dutch family, Mark, Niels, Thijs, Luitje and Simon for welcoming me to the family, the nice celebrations and putting up with my bad, beginner Dutch.

Finally, I would like to thank two extraordinary people who made this PhD journey possible. Günther, you are a strong, steady, flexible man and the captain of the Parcival. You witnessed my highs and lows, my moods and my mess. Thank you for your love, support, understanding and cooking. And yes, now you can retire. Last but not least, Mr.Wils. The best job I have ever had is being your mom. Thank you for trusting me to make this big move and to explore life's possibilities. You have a bright future. I look forward to watching you grow and witnessing the next chapters of your life.

A