

University of Groningen

Visco-elastic properties of biofilms

Peterson, Brandon Wade

IMPORTANT NOTE: You are advised to consult the publisher's version (publisher's PDF) if you wish to cite from it. Please check the document version below.

Document Version

Publisher's PDF, also known as Version of record

Publication date:

2013

Link to publication in University of Groningen/UMCG research database

Citation for published version (APA):

Peterson, B. W. (2013). Visco-elastic properties of biofilms. s.n.

Copyright

Other than for strictly personal use, it is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

The publication may also be distributed here under the terms of Article 25fa of the Dutch Copyright Act, indicated by the "Taverne" license. More information can be found on the University of Groningen website: <https://www.rug.nl/library/open-access/self-archiving-pure/taverne-amendment>.

Take-down policy

If you believe that this document breaches copyright please contact us providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

Downloaded from the University of Groningen/UMCG research database (Pure): <http://www.rug.nl/research/portal>. For technical reasons the number of authors shown on this cover page is limited to 10 maximum.

DANKWOORD

Acknowledgements

Though a promotion is a personal accomplishment, it is important to realize that it cannot be realized without the help of many people, including colleagues, friends and family. In this section, I wish to extend my gratitude to those who have helped me along the way.

First, I would like to thank those people who provided the opportunity and resources to make this Ph.D. possible. Don and Marianne, thank you for providing me the intellectual stimulus during work and introducing me to Henk. Marianne and Steve, I would like to offer special thanks for helping me organize my exit from Cincinnati and entrance into Holland. Mom and Dad, thank you for helping me through the last months in the United States and the first few months in the Netherlands. The extra burden you carried during those critical times helped me focus on my work and accomplish everything I have during my time in the Netherlands.

Henk and Henny, I wish to thank you for giving my project the freedom from the start. Although the project did not go exactly as planned, I believe that the freedom you allowed me in the laboratory gave some valuable new insight that would not have been determined otherwise. I also wish to thank you for your insights during meetings. We may not have always seen eye to eye, but after comparing thoughts, the manuscripts and experiments became better in the end. It is difficult to manage as many Ph.D. students as you do, and the late night emails certainly demonstrate your commitment to your students. The fast replies were always greatly appreciated.

Prashant, thank you for having an open-door policy with your office hours. You were mostly available for a chat, about work or life in Holland, whenever I felt the need for a distraction. We spent some long hours together working on manuscript drafts and thinking about new experimental designs. Also, thanks for organizing BBQs on the lake during the few good spells of good weather.

I would like to thank the members of the reading committee, Prof. Bulstra, Prof. Ren, and Prof. Quax for taking the time to critically read my thesis.

Helen, thank you for working hard on your project and allowing me to guide you along the way. We both learned a lot as we pushed through the experimental troubles and manuscript writing. Your experimental ideas were both clinically relevant and interesting, but we just did not have the time to pursue them. Hopefully in your new position, you can find time to investigate more of what interests you.

Yijin, although we did not spend a lot of time outside of meetings discussing projects, your clinical insight assisting Helen's project was greatly appreciated. Your assistance with the biofilm collection device was critical for the success of the overall project, and for which I want to specifically say thank you.

Theo, thank you very much for your assistance with the confocal microscope, as well as for preparing the fixation solutions.

Ina, I would like to say thank you for doing a marvelous job keeping the department well organized for my four years. Willy, you joined midway through my project, and have done a fantastic job.

Wya, there is an opportunity behind every closed door. Nothing could be truer about your office hours. Despite hiding behind a closed door, you were always available to discuss the financial aspects of the Ph.D. project and its associated travel. Thank you for keeping all regulations and the required paperwork in order.

I wish to thank all the technicians I have had the pleasure of working with, especially Marja, René, and Gésinda for their ongoing discussions and assistance.

Jesse and Jan, thank you for agreeing to be paranymphs and help me organize and celebrate this promotion. I also wish to express my thanks to both of you for being able to discuss matters that required discussion in order to reset and keep me fresh. May I have the envelope please...?

To all my friends and colleagues, past and present, I wish to thank you for a very special four years in the Netherlands. This was my first experience in a foreign country, and I could not have asked for a better first experience. I would like to make a special mention to a few, but collectively I owe you all my deepest gratitude.

To those that shared an office with me, Adam, Isa and Jan, thank you for providing a stimulating environment to work and think. The blend of research that we shared provided new insights to my work, and I hope that I was able to provide new ways to think about your work. Isa, I also want to thank you for the special assistance you gave me in my first few months. Jan, thanks for translating my Dutch summary. Adam, I want to send a big thank you to you and your family for hosting our group in Sweden.

Deepak and Agnieszka, first off congratulations. It was a long time coming, but I wish you all the best as you share your lives together. As you probably know, you both have been the social gurus of the department for each of my years here. Whenever there was an outing, most likely one, if not both, of you were involved. It really helped separate myself from my work (not an easy task).

Jesse, it was a very special treat to share my experience with someone else from North America. Sometimes, a view from the other side of the pond was needed. Also, thank you for helping me out in the laboratory when I wasn't able to attend to my experiments. I also wish to thank you and Mark for all the great discussions about matters of all sorts.

Arina, thank you for attempting to teach me Nederlands. I hope that I am able to keep a few words stored in my memory banks as a reminder of all the good times I have had in the Netherlands. Although you are a guest in our department, you meshed well and often participated in our social outings. I also want to thank you for all of the help you gave in organizing the Sweden trip with Adam.

Katya, I wish to thank you for opening my eyes to a different, but wonderful culture. There is so much to learn if one just opens their eyes and opinions to new ideas. I also want to thank you for all the parties and discussions we have had throughout the years. Your project was particularly stressful, but if everyone learned from your perseverance and patience, the world would be a much better place for everyone.

Rebecca, as the department turns over Ph.D. students, old friends leave, and new friends arrive. The social group that was active in my first few years left, and you arrived. Thankfully, we picked up right where we left off, and maybe even became more active. I hope that you will be as successful in keeping an active social group as the next batch of students graduate.

Ed, thank you for organizing all the football matches after work this last summer. It was a lot of fun, and very healthy to run around and get exercise. Maybe next year you can play with pads. 😊

Shahriar, it has been a lot of fun sharing stories and science with you in the past years. Thanks for having a good ear, and an open mind to a lot of ideas. Also, thanks for being a frequent player in our social outings and parties. They always are a lot of fun.

To the after-hours crew, specifically Joana, Song, Anna, Brian and Jiuyi, thanks for keeping the weekends and evenings both spontaneous and interesting. It really helped to make coming into work after hours more enjoyable.

Stefan and Otto, thanks for keeping the attitude of the workplace fun and enjoyable. The small, unexpected things done every once in awhile, not only gave kept us on our toes, but also broke up the seriousness of the workplace that can sometimes be overwhelming.

Das, thanks for being a big part of our social group, and for helping me with the DNA portions of my research.

Lynda and Tammy, thank you very much for making the effort to come to the Netherlands to help me celebrate my promotion.

My friends back in the United States, thanks for keeping in good contact through the internet. The many chats that we have had in the evenings prevented long spells of homesickness. I hope that wherever my next job lands me that we will stay in good contact and have visits from time to time.

To my European friends, as I may not be able to see you as frequently as my friends in the United States (again depending on my job); I hope that we will also keep in good contact. Wherever I end up, please feel welcome to come to visit.

To my family, Mom, Dad, Heidi, Hank, Dustin, Vicki, Emma, Madelyn, and Harper, thank you for all of your continued support and taking the time to help me celebrate my promotion in the Netherlands. To the members of my family that were not able to make the journey, although I have not been able to keep in touch as often as we would like, I wish to thank you for your support and encouragement.

NOTES

NOTES

NOTES

NOTES