Curriculum Vitae

Jelena Stevanović was born in Niš, Serbia on the 13th July, 1983. She completed studies of Pharmacy at Medical faculty, University of Niš in 2008. After gaining her degree, she worked for a medical wholesale company as a sales manager and later as a pharmacist.

In 2011, she moved to the Netherlands to start her PhD program at University of Groningen at department of Pharmacoepidemiology and Pharmacoeconomics; her promotor was Prof. dr. M.J. Postma and copromotors were Dr. P. Pechlivanoglou and Dr. H.H. Le. Her research topics ranged from exploring the possible solutions to the methodological challenges in simulating and synthesizing pharmacoeconomic evidence in cardiovascular disease prevention to deriving pharmacoeconomic evidence on the use of oral anticoagulants of direct societal relevance in the Dutch setting. The projected date of obtaining her PhD degree is December 22nd, 2015. During her PhD research, Jelena authored and co-authored several scientific publications and gave podium and poster presentations at internationally renowned congresses, including the International Society for Pharmacoeconomics and Outcomes Research (ISPOR) and Medical Decision Making congress. From March to September 2015 Jelena worked as a research associate at KU Leuven and ERASMUS MC on a project exploring budget impact of introducing infliximab biosimilar in the EU5.

Since mid-September 2015, Jelena is employed by Bristol-Myers Squibb as an Associate Pricing & Reimbursement manager.
