Corrigendum

Corrigendum to “NEAT1: Culprit lncRNA linking PIG—C, MSLN, and CD80 in triple-negative breast cancer” [Life Sci., volume 299 (2022) 120523]

The authors regret that the name of one of the authors was not included in the original article due to an oversight. Monica Armanious, the omitted author, significantly contributed to this research work and her work was essential to the success of our project. Monica conducted the screening experiments in human tissues under the supervision of Dr. El Tayebi. Monica left the research career due to maternity circumstances during the publication process. Unfortunately, we figured out that her name was not mentioned in the final pdf submitted for publication by unintended error. This was recently noticed when Monica decided to continue pursuing research and publish her work to apply for PhD.

The author names and the affiliations listed in this corrigendum are correct and complete.

The authors would like to apologise for any inconvenience caused.
